Midway Shows Plans For New City Hall

MIDWAY (Dec. 5) - Midway City announced today that a contract has been signed for construction of a new city office building.

The new building will stand on the property once occupied by the Midway school, which has been demolished.

In making the announcement, Mayor Eugene Probst stated that, although there was some criticism of the building, it has been in the planning stage for the past six months. Responding to the criticism Probst said that it was his feeling that the majority of the community favored the new community and that no public hearing was necessary because Midway was not borrowing or bonding to pay for the building. "In fact," said Probst, "I don't know if any other city in the state can say they have the money in the bank for a new office building."

When completed, the new structure will contain 4000 square feet on the main floor. The basement will be left unfinished until such time as the space is needed for expansion.

The building is designed in a Swiss mode to blend in with other buildings on the town square. The exterior will feature stucco, native rock and a clock tower. Inside there will be eight offices, two multi-purpose rooms and a large open foyer.

Total cost of the building is $203,000. Midway City will do part of the construction, including excavation and landscaping. The architect is George Olson of Provo, and the contractor is Bryant Anderson of Midway.

Lucy and Richard Thomson have a new Grandson. Ryan Gordon Terry was born Thursday, Nov. 5 to Jan and Gordon Terry at the University of Utah Hospital. He weighed in at 8 lbs. 9 oz. His other living Great Grandfather is Brighton Terry of Salt Lake City.

One day during the week while Henry was working outside, he noticed a car that went up the road, down the road, up again and down again, apparently lost. Upon seeing him, they stopped and asked for directions to the State Park. Henry showed them the way, stopping to see the Homestead, the Craters, the warm springs, golf course and State Park.

They were Michael and Leola Vierra and two children from LaHaina, Maui Hawaii who own the Leola of Hawaii Inc., which manufactures fun wear. They invited the Kohler's to visit them in Hawaii.

The Midway Third Ward Elders Quorum held their Christmas Party which was enjoyed by 50. White elephant awards were presented to special people. Prime rib, baked potatoes, candied apples were served with a salad bar and everyone brought favorite desserts. The program was presented by a group from Provo who played the piano and synthesizer.

Many friends and relatives attended the welcome home for Elder Lowell and Sister Helen Griffiths who were the speakers at the Midway Third Ward Sacrament Meeting. The primary children sang two numbers.

Walt and Velda Schnakenburg are saddened this Christmas season due to the loss of a great granddaughter, a beautiful three year old. No cause could be found for her sudden illness, so after her death found a fist-sized tumor at the base of her skull.

At the Midway Second Ward twins Jason and Justin Oakerland were the youth speakers. Bruce Luke, and Lex Tracy of the Elders Quorum spoke. Jeremy Stratton sang a solo.

Thursday evening the Midway Second Ward held their Relief Society Christmas Party with their husbands invited. Pres. and Sister Richard Klein who served three years as Mission President in Germany were speakers with "Peace on Earth" their subject. Dinner of chicken, baked potatoes, vegetables and dip, jello salad, rolls and cheese cake were enjoyed at the Midway Stake Center.

The Christmas Feast at the Homestead was indeed a great success and all who missed it missed a spectacular of Christmas ideas and the spirit of Christmas with Santa showing up in the afternoon of all three days at which 216 candy canes were given the children.

The Utah Power and Light Company from the area held their Christmas Party Saturday night at the Homestead.

Due to Ward uses of the Midway Third Ward, there will be no art class until after the New Year has come.

The Midway Second and Midway Third Ward Christmas Parties will be held Friday night. The Second Ward at the Stake Center, and the Third Ward at the Third Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Nielson were the speakers at the Midway Fourth Ward. The choir furnished beautiful music.
